

Objective: Seeking an opportunity to join a passionate outdoor organization with a purpose driven mission

Who I am: I am an active outdoor enthusiast, designer, volunteer, photographer, and adventurer with an engineering background from Stanford University. At my core, I value integrity, humility, and doing the right thing above all else. I embrace challenge and understand no one can get through this world alone.

“You are defined not by your job title but by what you do in your spare time and how you treat people.” - paraphrased from a wise man
